Mount Aspiring is a majestic, soaring peak and a challenging climb. Known to New Zealand Maori as Tititea, 'The Glistening Peak', Mount Aspiring exemplifies much of what a real 'classic' mountain represents. From some aspects, it has formidable sheer faces and from others, it has fine graceful lines that culminate in its sharply defined summit. In short, Mount Aspiring inspires the urge to strap on those crampons and climb!

THE ROUTES ON MOUNT ASPIRING

THE RAMP

This is a steep snow route (35–50 degrees) ascending from the Bonar Glacier, which meets the North West Ridge halfway to the summit. It is our most commonly ascended route and an all-time classic. We ascend this route until late December, when access is cut off by late summer conditions.

THE NORTH WEST RIDGE

A rock route which follows the ridge, deviously avoiding any really difficult climbing, but has plenty of exposure! The North West Ridge is mainly exposed rock scrambling done in mountaineering boots with several pitches of snow or ice at the summit. The rock is largely exposed but easy scrambling but being comfortable climbing Grade 14 (US 5.6 US/UK 4b HS) will help on the trickier sections. We usually follow this route from mid-late December onwards.

THE SOUTH WEST RIDGE

This climb is a real gem for more technically orientated mountaineers. A long fine arête gradually steepens to culminate in a technical gully section of steep ice, mixed terrain or rock, depending on the time of year. Finally a two-pitch ice face takes you almost to the summit itself.

The Ramp and North West Ridge routes are of similar technical grade and conditions can sometimes favour one of these routes over the other. Often the decision on the most appropriate route to climb can only be made once you are in the region. The South West Ridge is a more difficult climb and people attempting this will need prior ice climbing and technical mountaineering experience.

All three climbing routes take on average around 14–16 hours return.

The hike into the Aspiring region is a beautiful but long trek (12–16 hours) to Bevan Col or Colin Todd Hut, where we base ourselves for the climb. Most of our climbers utilise helicopter access to Bevan Col on the edge of the Bonar Glacier in order to arrive fresh and take advantage of fine weather periods. For this reason, we have included the cost of a helicopter access flight in the trip price.

PREREQUISITE SKILLS

Climbers attempting Mount Aspiring by any route must have basic snow and ice climbing skills, glacier travel and crevasse rescue experience.

It is also important to have good fitness, balance, coordination and the ability to carry a pack of 12–15 kg over rough, untracked terrain for 8–10 hours. While you will be carrying light packs for your acclimatisation and summits days, you will be required to carry a full load on the first day to Colin Todd Hut and again on the 2-day walk out to the road end.

Climbers considering the South West Ridge should have solid technical climbing skills, including being comfortable ice climbing with two ice tools on steep ice and mixed terrain.

If you do not have the prerequisite skills, then we recommend that you join either our introductory Mountaineering Instruction Course (Duration: 7 days, Price: NZ$2,950) or our Mount Aspiring Course & Ascent (Duration: 7 days, Price: NZ$6,450).

OUR GUIDES

Adventure Consultants guides are NZMGA and/or IFMGA qualified mountain guides. They are professional mountaineers and operate to the highest industry standards.

Being a great climber alone is not enough to work with us; our standards demand that trip leaders are great guides as well. You will find your guide friendly, approachable and focused on providing a safe and enjoyable trip in line with your objectives and comfort level.

Success with the highest margin of care is always a hallmark of our approach; promoting the realisation that even extreme pursuits such as high-altitude mountaineering can be undertaken safely.

Adventure Consultants employs only IFMGA or NZMGA qualified guides, the most advanced training and certification program in New Zealand and internationally. In order to gain these qualifications, guides must undergo rigorous training and assessment on climbing skills, instructional skills, avalanche training and assessment, wilderness first aid, rescue training and much more. The qualification takes 5–7 years to attain and ensures you are getting a world-class professional service.

GUIDE RATIO

We only guide Mount Aspiring on a 1:1 guide-to-climber ratio due to the demands of the terrain, and to ensure the highest standards of safety.

ITINERARY

DAY 1

Meet your guide in Wanaka, check gear, drive to the road end and fly into the mountains in the early afternoon. A two-hour walk across the Bonar Glacier takes us to Colin Todd Hut (1,780m/5,840ft). Alternatively, we may opt to camp in our tent camp on Bevan Col (1,850m/6,070ft).

DAY 2

Acclimatisation day. Ascend a smaller peak such as Mount Bevan (2,030m/6,660ft) and undertake some familiarisation skills with your guide.

DAY 3

Summit day (3,033m/9,951ft), start 3am, and finish as late as 7pm OR contingency day.

DAY 4

Commence the 2-day walk out to the road-end, either via French Ridge or Bevan Col, depending on conditions OR contingency day.

PLEASE NOTE: The walk out from Mount Aspiring (particularly the Bevan Col route) is a long, challenging trek that many people find as challenging as the climb of Mount Aspiring. Climbers need to be fit and capable of carrying a fully loaded pack through steep, untracked terrain for 8–10 hours after a long summit day.

DAY 5

Complete walk out to road end or fly out on back flight (weather permitting) to the vehicle at the road end.

NOTE: Due to the nature of the terrain and duration of the walk out, we sometimes utilise the option to fly out on a back flight at the completion of the climb. This is weather dependent, so climbers must be prepared to walk out of the mountains if the helicopters are unable to fly. The optional flight out is an additional cost for which we are happy to give you an estimated price at the time of booking.

CLIMBING SEASON

We guide Mount Aspiring all year as conditions allow, although our main climbing season is from November through to April.

In November and December, you can expect more snow cover on the routes. As temperatures warm up into the summer months of January and February, we traditionally experience more settled weather and mixed climbing conditions (snow, ice and rock). From March through to April, late summer conditions exist which result in a combination of rock and ice routes. From May onwards, cooling temperatures can bring heavy snowfalls to the Alps. Winter conditions are less predictable, and the days are shorter, however, for experienced climbers, the winter solitude can be incredibly rewarding!

We specialise in ice climbing and ski touring through the months of July to September. While the days are shorter and the temperatures cooler, there is still a lot of fun to be had in the mountains! Ask us about our ice climbing courses and ski touring trips if you are keen to get out in the winter months.

WEATHER

New Zealand has a maritime climate and the weather is always a consideration in the high mountains. For the climbing season (November to April) the average temperature ranges from around -5°C up to 20°C. During the winter this can drop to -10°C or -15°C. There is no heating source in the huts, so you need to be prepared for cold overnight temperatures.

ACCESS TO THE MOUNTAIN

Our 5-day Mount Aspiring Guided Ascents are run on a fly-in/walk out basis.

The benefit of flying into the mountains is that it alleviates the long walk in and the usual necessary recovery day. It also allows more time to be spent on actual climbing in the high mountains. Most importantly it can allow us to take advantage of windows of fine weather which are typical of the maritime climate of New Zealand. Access flights are included in the trip price.

The walk out to the road end is typically done over 2-days, descending either by French Ridge or Bevan Col as conditions dictate.

TRIP ACCOMMODATION

Adventure Consultants will provide your accommodation while the trip is running which is from 9.00am on Day 1 until 5.00pm on Day 5. When in the mountains you will stay in mountain huts with shared bunkrooms and basic facilities. There are no single rooms available and unlike European huts, you need to provide your own sleeping bag. Some mountain nights may be spent in tents or bivvys where you will be more exposed to the elements, but the final decision on this will be made by your guide after weighing up all the factors.

If you experience a delay with entering the mountains caused by weather, you will be accommodated in Wanaka in dormitory style backpackers with shared bathroom facilities. You may decide to upgrade to single accommodations in Wanaka at your own expense, should you require.

EQUIPMENT

Climbing in the Southern Alps requires you have the highest quality clothing and equipment due to the extremes of weather conditions. Our focus is on having the essential clothing and equipment while keeping your pack as light as possible.

Your guide will go through an equipment checklist with you at the beginning of your trip. Actual equipment taken may vary subject to seasonal weather and route conditions. All group equipment including ropes and cooking equipment will be organised by your guide.

We can offer secure storage at our office for your luggage and valuables during the trip.

COMMUNICATION & MESSAGES

Our guides are in radio/cell/satellite phone communication with our operations base and Department of Conservation headquarters throughout the trip. This assists us with schedule and weather forecast updates, helicopter coordination and safety back up. Urgent messages can be relayed via our office to the field if required. Each party carries a locator beacon for additional security.

FITNESS & HEALTH

To make the most of your climbing experience, we encourage you to work on your fitness prior to the trip. You will find that training with a 15kg/30lb+ pack is the best preparation for the mountains, with the aim of getting 'pack fit' and building your endurance. Your guide places special focus on fitness levels and will regulate the pace accordingly.
