In July 2018, Adventure Consultants is operating an expedition to climb Alpamayo's Southwest Face. Situated in the mountains of Peru, this 5,917m or 19,411ft mountain is often referred to as the most beautiful mountain in the world. An ascent of Artesonraju at 6,025m or 19,767ft is also possible, as an add-on climb to the expedition.

History

Nevado Alpamayo, as it's more correctly known is situated in Peru's Cordillera Blanca. With its twenty-nine summits at over 6,000m, the Cordillera Blanca forms but a small part of the Andes chain, located down the entire western side of South America. Alpamayo doesn't quite reach that rounded figure of 6,000m but makes up for its relative lack of height in aesthetic beauty.

The first attempt on Alpamayo's summit was in 1948 by a Swiss expedition. Climbing by way of the heavily corniced North Ridge, the three climbers came within sight of the virgin summit when a large cornice broke under them, and they were carried down the precipitous Northwest Face. By some amazing piece of good fortune, the three were neither buried nor injured by the 200m fall and they were able to make an 'orderly retreat' from the mountain.

In 1957 a German expedition led by Günter Hauser, comprising of some of Germany's strongest climbers succeeded in climbing Alpamayo via its South Ridge. Although no less steep, nor less dangerous than the North Ridge, this ridge had the tremendous advantage of leading directly to the higher South summit.

Summit day consists of 500m of perfect two-tooled ice and nevé (Styrofoam-like snow) climbing on a flawless fluted Face. A climber knows they are close to reaching the top when they begin to see light through the face from the other side.

How the Expedition Operates

After a meeting in Lima, we drive north to Huaraz and repack the expedition gear. This town and its higher elevation allow us to further acclimatise and prepare for the challenges ahead. We then drive north to the Santa Cruz Valley, where we begin our trek into Base Camp. With the bulk of our gear on pack animals, we gradually acclimatise as we ascend the valley beneath some of the famous peaks of the Cordillera Blanca - the enormous Santa Cruz, Artesonraju and the very imposing pyramid of Quitaraju.

We establish a Base Camp in a small valley right beneath Quitaraju (6,036m) and Alpamayo (5,917m) and then spend several days establishing an Advanced Base Camp on the Col between the two peaks. Depending on conditions on the mountain, we can choose from a variety of routes, such as the Ferrari Route or the Italian Route. On our climb of the Ferrari Route, we traverse a gentle glacier to the base of the route, soon reaching 45-degree slopes before crossing a bergschrund and then ascending the sharply fluted snow and ice face directly to the summit. We enjoy 400m of challenging ground, much of it at a sustained 60 degrees of mixed ice and snow. The final pitches are even steeper and provide an exciting finish to one of the world's finest ice face routes.

Alpamayo Expedition Itinerary

July 2 to 20, 2018

Day 1: Arrive Lima and transfer to your hotel.

Day 2: Travel by Tourist bus first class seat from Lima to Huaraz, 7-8 hours. We opt for the seats on the tourist bus over a private minivan transfer, as the drivers are safer and the vehicle is more comfortable. Stay at a comfortable hotel in Huaraz.

Day 3: Huaraz: A day to acclimatise to our new altitude of 3,100m. We will also use this day to refresh our rock climbing skills at the local Los Olivos Crags.

Day 4: Huaraz. Day hike to the Macashca Hills and overnight at your Huaraz hotel.

Today we enjoy a climb up into the hills directly behind Huaraz. The trip starts with a short car journey (around ½ hour into the Macashca Valley close to Huaraz). We initially walk up quite steeply for around 1 hour on a grassy hillside and then reach a wide open grassy ridge which you follow easily to a saddle at 4,200m. From the ridge, there are fantastic views over Huaraz, across to the snow-capped peaks of the Cordillera Blanca, Huascarán (the highest mountain in Peru) and the Cordillera Negra.

The walk descends a long way with open views all the way to finish in Huaraz. Around 5 hours.

Day 5: Huaraz. Day hike to Laguna Churup and overnight at the Huaraz hotel.

Today we head out for a good acclimatisation walk. We take a car from Huaraz to Pitec, driving through the attractive farming settlements of Unchus and Llupa (1½ hours' drive). From Pitec (3,850m), there is a steady climb on a good path with views to Laguna Churup (4,440m), a beautiful turquoise mountain lake below Nevada Churup (5,493m). The final 100m to the lake is up a steep rock gully. We allow 4 to 5 hours walk from Pitec to the lake and return.

Laguna Churup

Day 6: Vallunaraju. To Morena Camp (5,130m)

Day 7: Vallunaraju. Climbing instruction day at approx 5,300m. Stay at Morena Camp (5,130m).

Day 8: Vallunaraju Summit climb (5,686m). Around 10 hours to climb and return to Llaca Valley, and then return to Huaraz by car. Overnight at your Huaraz hotel.

Day 9: Rest day Huaraz, a time to sleep in, wash clothes and of course, eat!

Day 10: Drive 2½ hours from Huaraz to the village of Cashapampa (2,090m) where we meet our donkey drivers. Approaching Cashapampa we have our first view of Santa Cruz, the huge pyramid-shaped mountain that gives the trekking circuit its name. We climb up through the Santa Cruz Valley, following the river. The first 2 hours we are in a steep sided river gorge and it can be quite hard, as we are climbing continuously, and if the sun is out, it is hot in the gorge. But later the valley opens out onto grassland and it is more flat and cooler, as we approach our first camp. We camp near the river at Llama Corral (3,750m). Around 4 to 5 hours.

Day 11: This is also a short day and you'll probably be at Alpamayo Base Camp for lunch, to then enjoy a rest in the afternoon. During the walk up the valley, the twin peaks Quitaraju and the famous Alpamayo come into view. We walk past two lakes; first the small Ichiccocha and then the larger Jatuncocha. We then climb 40 minutes on a steep zig-zag path to enter the Quebrada Arhuaycocha and continue with a relaxed hike up the valley to Alpamayo Base Camp (4,250m). Around 4 to 5 hours.

Day 12: To Moraine Camp (5,000m). This is a testing climb on moraine and some slippery rock, up until we reach Moraine Camp at the end of the glacier. Around 2-3 hours.

Day 13: To High Camp (5,450m). We climb up an average 45-degree ice gully to reach the bottom of an ice cliff. In some years there is about 100m to 150m of 70-degree ice to climb to arrive at the top of an ice cliff and we may fix ropes on this section. The High Camp is situated at the top of the ice cliff between Alpamayo & Quitaraju. Around 4 to 5 hours.

Day 14: Summit Day Alpamayo.

We leave camp early and climb on sometimes steep snow slopes for about an hour to a bergschrund at the bottom of the Southwest Face; at times there are crevasses to negotiate. The climb on the Southwest Face to the summit is steep and technical, with mixed good snow and hard ice. The climb to the summit takes about 5 hours. The descent is by the same route and takes 9 rappels. Return to sleep at High Camp, with the whole day taking approximately 8 to 9 hours. With an early start and early arrival back at High Camp, there is the option to descend to Base Camp on the same day also.

Day 15: CONTINGENCY DAY. Bad weather day, rest day or climb Quitaraju.

Day 16: Return to Base Camp.

It is necessary to do a rappel of 100m to 150m close to the High Camp to descend the ice cliff. The last 1½ hours to the camp is on steep and slippery rock. Around 5 to 6 hours.

Day 17: A long but easy walk down the Quebrada Santa Cruz to Cashapampa, taking 6 to 7 hours. Our vehicle will be waiting in Cashapampa to return us to Huaraz and our comfortable hotel. Or join Artesonraju add-on itinerary – see below.

Day 18: Transfer back to Lima. Flights home in the evening or stay in a Lima hotel.

Day 19: Transfer to airport/flights home for those that didn't depart on prior evening.

Artesonraju Add-On

An ascent of Artesonraju 6,025m (19,767ft) can turn our 19-day Alpamayo programme into a fantastic 25-day expedition to include one of the world's most recognisable summits. Artesonraju, made famous in the Paramount Pictures logo, is a beautiful pyramidal peak situated between the Santa Cruz and Paron Valleys. The climbing is more technical than Alpamayo with some pitches up to 60-80 degrees. Climbers must be totally confident using two technical ice tools and to have climbed, and be confident climbing, long (200m+) steep technical ice walls.

The cost depends on how many people join the Artesonraju extension and is guided at a 1:2 ratio. Your guide/s from the Alpamayo programme will accompany you and the cost is inclusive of the Adventure Consultants western guide from the trip guiding you on Artesonraju.

In previous years we have offered an extension itinerary to climb Huascarán, the highest peak in Peru. However, conditions have been deteriorating making the climb more dangerous and with a lesser chance of success. Hence, we are now offering Artesonraju as an add-on to Alpmayo.

Artesonraju Expedition Itinerary

Day 17: Jul 18 Move to Artesonraju Base Camp
Day 18: Jul 19 Rest day in Base Camp
Day 19: Jul 20 Climb to Moraine Camp
Day 20: Jul 21 Climb to High Camp
Day 21: Jul 22 Climb Artesonraju & return to Base Camp
Day 22: Jul 23 Rest day or bad weather day
Day 23: Jul 24 Return to Huaraz
Day 24: Jul 25 Transfer to Lima
Day 25: Jul 26 Departure and flights home

Flight Information

Flight arrangements should be scheduled so that you arrive in Lima on the first scheduled day of the trip or earlier if you want some time to explore the city. The morning of the trip's second day, you will take a private bus from Lima to Huaraz.

At the end of the trip, we are able to drive to Lima and generally depart from Lima on international flights on the same day as most flights leave in the evening from Lima.

The Level of Experience Required

To climb Alpmayo and Artesonraju you need to be physically fit, have strong mental stamina and be capable of strenuous exercise for several days duration. Expedition members can expect to be exerting themselves for about six hours per day and be capable of carrying a 20 kg pack.

Climbing at altitude affects people differently; most climbers notice a lower performance rate than normal. Our climbing days are mostly short to accommodate this and vital rest days are usually welcomed! Our graduated acclimatisation program allows you to progressively consolidate your fitness.

This expedition is advanced in nature. From the altitude to the technical nature of the climbing, prospective members should have experience with multi-pitch climbing (rock or ice), and be comfortable following Grade 4 ice climbs and have climbed at altitude.
