During the southern summer of 2020/2021, Adventure Consultants will operate its twenty-seventh year of expeditions to Mount Vinson, Antarctica's highest summit. If you have a desire to discover the Antarctic interior and stand on the summit of Mount Vinson, then this is an exciting opportunity and very likely your best chance of achieving that goal.

Mount Vinson is situated in the heart of the Ellsworth Mountains, 700 nautical miles from the South Pole. The mountain was first climbed by an American expedition during the summer of 1966/67 but was not ascended a second time until 1979. Both expeditions were supported by government programmes.

The Canadian company Adventure Network International (ANI) opened up this area to private expeditions and operated regular flights to its summer camp at Patriot Hills from 1985. In 2003/2004 they withdrew their Antarctic operations and Antarctica Logistics & Expeditions (ALE) stepped in. ALE is run by some of the same people that initially started ANI back in the 1980s and they now use a new camp at Union Glacier as their base to operate from in Antarctica.

Mount Vinson is 4,897m/16,067ft high but is not a technically difficult climb although it is an extremely cold ascent with temperatures dropping to minus

40°C near the summit. Under the leadership of experienced Antarctic guides, climbers of moderate experience can safely undertake the expedition.

While ALE will supply our transport to and from Antarctica, Adventure Consultants will provide all the leadership, guiding staff and team equipment necessary for the expedition.

MEETING POINT

We will gather in Punta Arenas, Chile. Regular flights on LAN Chile and Ladeco Airlines connect with Santiago and other points north. As the group gear must be weighed and loaded at least one day prior to departure to Union Glacier, you must schedule your arrival accordingly. Thus, we recommend arriving the day before the official start date of the expedition or at the very least, arriving on the morning of Day 1.

ACCESS TO THE MOUNTAIN

From Punta Arenas at the tip of Chile, we fly by Ilyushin 76 aircraft to the ALE base at Union Glacier. Here the aircraft makes a wheeled landing on a natural blue ice runway.

Union Glacier Camp, situated at 80 degrees South, consists of a small collection of tents. The dining and kitchen tent has a wooden floor and is heated with a kerosene stove. We sleep here overnight in our own mountain tents but gather for meals in the warmth of the dining tent.

From Union Glacier, we transfer to a smaller ski equipped aircraft (Twin Otter or Cessna) for a one hour flight north to the base of the Mount Vinson in the heart of the Ellsworth Mountains.

THE ROUTE

The climb involves interesting glacier travel on the wide and gently sloping lower reaches of the Branscomb Glacier. We pull our sleds up the glacier far below the impressive ice falls that cascade from the main Vinson plateau, 1,500m/5,000ft above.

The Base Camp is situated on the Branscomb Glacier at approximately 2,100m/6,900ft and we use two higher camps at approximately 2,700m/8,850ft and 3,850m/12,600ft. The Low Camp is situated further up the glacier just beyond the second icefall, below an ice-wall, which drops directly from the main summit which is about a 7-hour walk from Base Camp punctuated by regular breaks to take in the scenery. We carry half of our equipment in a rucksack and the other half we tow behind on a small plastic sledge.

From Low Camp, we climb a 1,200m/4,000ft snow arête (up to 40 degrees steep) on fixed rope for approximately 800m/2,600ft. Fixed rope techniques will be taught during the expedition. The snow arête leads us to High Camp which takes about 6–9 hours. High Camp is nestled beside a rocky ridge adjacent to the main summit plateau.

The climb from High Camp to the summit normally takes between 7 and 10 hours, depending on the speed of the party. The descent back to the top camp takes around 2½ hours. On summit day as you climb the glacial plateau, you will first pass Branscomb Peak on the left and the final Vinson summit pyramid then lies directly ahead. From here we climb the picturesque East Ridge, weaving in and out of small rock steps until we arrive at the stunningly beautiful summit and the highest point on the Antarctic continent.

There is a Sierra Club book in a metal tin on the summit of the peak for those wishing to record their ascent. The descent from High Camp down to Base Camp can be achieved reasonably comfortably in one day. We collect the toilet bags and other waste on the way down the mountain.

PREREQUISITE SKILLS

To climb Mount Vinson, you need to be physically fit, have strong mental stamina and be capable of strenuous exercise for several days' duration. Expedition members can expect to be exerting themselves for about 6–12 hours per day and 12 hours on summit day. You must also be capable of carrying a 25kg/55lb pack.

While the route is quite long, it is not a technically difficult climb, so climbers with modest mountaineering backgrounds in glaciated terrain are welcome to join this expedition. Skill prerequisites we want team members to have are experience traveling on a rope team in a glaciated environment, experience with the use of crampons and ice axe on steep snow and ice slopes, and crevasse rescue knowledge. Team members should also have backcountry snow camping experience. Having climbed at moderate altitude (above 4,300m/9,500ft) will be helpful and it is essential to arrive sufficiently 'pack' fit for long days with big loads.

TEAM SIZE

The team will have a minimum size of 4 members and 1 guide and a maximum size of 10 members and 2 guides.

You will find the Adventure Consultants Mountain Guides companionable and strong expedition leaders with considerable power and willingness to see you achieve your goals. The number of guides is determined by the team size but the normal ratio of guides to climbers is 1:5.

Trip 5: January 6–21, 2021

ITINERARY

Following is an ideal itinerary for our 2020/2021 Mount Vinson Expeditions:

Day 1	Meet in Punta Arenas, Chile
Day 2	Weighing and loading of gear
Day 3	Expedition briefing
Day 4	Fly to Union Glacier, Antarctica
Day 5	Fly to Mount Vinson Base Camp
Day 6–13	Climb Mount Vinson
Day 14	Return to Union Glacier
Day 15	Depart for Punta Arenas
Day 16	Depart for home

NOTE: Antarctic flights are subject to weather; delays can and often do occur. It is important to allow flexibility with airline travel arrangements.

THE ADVANTAGES OF CLIMBING WITH ADVENTURE CONSULTANTS

Adventure Consultants is renowned for the quality of its service and strategy applied to high altitude expedition climbing. Our reputation is attributed to meticulous planning and experienced logistics coordination. We have a philosophy of investing in every expedition to offer our climbers the best possible chance of success.

We employ strong and specialised Expedition leaders and support staff, who are some of the most pre-eminent in the industry. We pride ourselves on operating with small teams, the best back-up and support available. This includes nutritious and ample quantities of food, comfortable Base Camp facilities, reliable communications systems and the necessary medical back up.

Many of our expedition members come to us because they have seen us in action on a previous trip and decide to opt for our level of service and proven experience. Others return because they know we do our very best to make expeditions safe and successful.

VISAS

Expedition members must secure their own visa for multiple-entry into Chile. While Chile claims part of the Antarctic Continent as its sovereignty, it requires that we check through immigration when leaving for and returning from Antarctica; thus a multi-entry visa is required.

HOTELS

Adventure Consultants can book your hotel in Punta Arenas or you can take care of this yourself. Please advise us at the time of booking.

COMMUNICATIONS

The expedition will be equipped with portable Iridium satellite phone systems for the duration of the expedition in order to provide reliable voice communication for weather forecasting and limited personal use. Limited satellite phone time can be purchased at the rate of US$4.00 per minute. If you anticipate high satellite phone usage please contact our office to discuss options for hiring a phone for your personal use.

EQUIPMENT LIST & REFERENCE NOTES

Expedition members will be sent a list detailing all the necessary clothing and equipment to be individually provided, contained within a set of Expedition Reference Notes with all the details for the trip. These notes provide extensive information on everything from suggestions of what type of camera to bring to training advice for your expedition preparation.

MEDICAL EXAMINATION & INSURANCE

Expedition members will be provided with a medical questionnaire by the expedition doctor and asked to visit their family physician to receive a full medical examination. This information will be sighted only by our Medical Advisor and treated with full confidentiality. We also require members to have rescue insurance and we will consult with individual team members as to your insurance needs and solutions for coverage.

PASSPORT PHOTOGRAPHS

Expedition members will be requested to provide 2 passport photographs and their climbing résumé.

ADD ON OPTIONS

For those expedition members that wish to extend their time in Antarctica we have a number of options available. Trek to the South Pole with our South Pole Ski the Last Degree option, climb unclimbed peaks on the frozen continent on our Climb Antarctica program, spend some time ski touring on Ski Antarctica, stay at our luxury Three Glaciers Camp or simply take a scenic flight to the South Pole. Whether your interest is towards the technically challenging or you simply want to see more of Antarctica then contact our office—there is endless scope for adventure!
